RESIDENT AND BUSINESS

DIRECTORY

—OF—

Medfield, Walpole & Norwood

EVER PUBLISHED.

Containing a Complete Resident, Street, and Business
Directory, Town Officers, Societies, Churches,
Post Offices, etc., etc.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, MASS.
OFFICE OF THE UNION PUBLISHING COMPANY.

1884.

PREFACE.

In issuing the first local directory of the towns of Medfield, Walpole and Norwood, we deem it proper to say that no pains has been spared to make it as complete and reliable as possible. The very nature of the work precludes an absolutely correct classification, as persons, occupations and residences are to some extent constantly changing, but we have tried to make it a valuable book for the public, and trust we have not failed in so doing.

Persons using the directory should remember that often two names pronounced alike are spelled differently and may be far apart in the book; thus it will be important to know how to spell correctly the name you wish to find.

Should any errors be found, we would esteem it a favor if readers would notify us of them.

A good directory is a benefit and of great value to a town in many ways, and every family should have one. We have put the price down so low (75c.) that it is within the reach of all.

We call attention to the advertisements in this directory, as our patrons are the most enterprising in these towns; parties wishing to buy goods or desiring service, professional or mechanical, will do well to consult these pages.

And finally we wish to return thanks for the courtesies which have been extended us in the prosecution of our work.

Respectfully

UNION PUBLISHING COMPANY.

HISTORY OF MEDFIELD.

Medfield is bounded on the North by Dover, on the East by Dover and Walpole, on the South by Walpole and Norfolk and on the West by Medway and Sherborn. It has 8145 acres of land, 282 dwelling houses and a total population of 1365 people, the first named figures being taken from the town records of 1884 and the latter from the census of 1880.

Records tell us that it was detached from Dedham in May, 1651, and incorporated as Medfield. It is quite generally supposed that the name was derived from the wide extent of meadow lands bordering on Charles river (which separates it from the towns above named as its western boundary) that sometimes present a beautiful appearance.

The scenery in and around Medfield, is unsurpassed by that of any town in the vicinity, and several artists of note have chosen landscape views from some of the many fine points of observation within its limits. The three churches, Baptist, Congregational and Unitarian, are well sustained; the public schools (five in number) well managed, and in a prosperous condition; the residences and their surroundings kept in an unusually neat condition; the highways in good order, all of which denote a good degree of thrift and prosperity.

The highest hills are Cedar Hill and Snows Hill, in the north easterly part of the town, Mt. Nebo in the easterly, Noon Hill in the southwestern, and Castle Hill in the northern section, each of which afford fine views of a large extent of country.

Probably the oldest houses in town are those now known as the Bosworth House, (built in 1697), the King Philip Cottage and the Peak House. The date of the erection of the latter two is obscure, and record tends to show that the "honor" so generally ascribed to the Peak, as being the only house now standing, that escaped the fire set by King Philip, in this town, in 1675, is entirely misplaced, as most likely the house was built since the year 1700. The King Philip Cottage presents many signs of antiquity which would interest lovers of old land-marks. It is not our intention or province to enter into a description of the many historical facts and events for which the town is so noted, but a full and comprehensive account of these will appear in the new town history which is soon to be published.

Medfield has several manufactories, the principal ones being the Excelsior Straw Works, a large carriage factory, grain mills and elevator, bonnet wire factory, machine knife factory, steam packing factory, shingle mill, box mill and several saw and grist mills, all doing a good business during their respective seasons. For a detailed account of the above industries, together with the business of the local dealers of all kinds of merchandise here, we refer our readers to their advertisements in this book. The Excelsior Works, when in full operation, furnish employment for 700 persons.

The Town House building, situated on Main street, is a fine structure. It contains a good dry basement where the Fire Engine and Hook and Ladder truck are kept, and proper rooms for company meetings. On the first story may be found the Post Office, Public Library, town officers' room and three stores. On the second story will be found one of the finest halls in this section, well furnished, lighted and heated. The greater part of the cost of this building was paid from a legacy left the town for that purpose, by the late George Chenery, Esq., and the hall appropriately bears his name.

The G. A. R. Post, (which was named for Moses Ellis, a native and former resident of this town,) is in a flourishing condition, and occupies a hall on Main street, opposite the Town House building, having leased the hall for a term of years. The Royal Arcanum Council, the Ancient Order of United Workmen Lodge and Medfield Lodge of Grangers, (P of H.) are also in a flourishing condition. They occupy a hall in Frost's block, North street, which is hired by the Workmen for a term of years, and sub let by them to each of the other societies, annually.

The town has two railroads passing through it, the Woonsocket Division of the New York and New England railroad and the Northern Division of the Old Colony railroad. The first named road passes through the northwestern part of the town and is connected with the central village by Wheeler's Stage and Express line. There are now five trains daily to Boston and way stations, and four to Woonsocket and way stations. The Northern Division of the Old Colony has a station near the centre of the town and now has four trains daily, north and south, making connections at Medfield Junction with the Woonsocket Division, at South Framingham with the Boston and Albany, at Walpole with the main line New York and New England, and at Mansfield with the Boston and Providence. It is also connected with Boston and Providence (Dedham branch) railroad, by Parker's Express and stage route to Dedham, via West Dedham.

There are two hotels, the Central and the Medfield, both well kept and located on North street, near the centre of the town.

The valuation of the real estate in the town for the year 1884, is $786,494, and of the personal estate is $310,166. The tax rate is $7.70 on $1000, for the above year.

The town is a favorite resort for summer visitors, because of its fine drives, its shady streets, its many social advantages and its easy accessibility by rail.

DEAN ACADEMY, FRANKLIN, MASS.

A First-Class Boarding School for both sexes.

Situated in the town of Franklin, twenty-seven miles from Boston, and seventeen from Providence, on the New York and New England Railroad, and easily accessible from all parts of New England. The town contains about four thousand inhabitants, has five churches, a good town library, and is withal a very desirable place for an educational institution.

THERE ARE FOUR COURSES OF STUDY.

Preparatory Course of one year, College Preparatory of four years, Academic of four years, and an English Course of three years; the latter is designed to fit young men for business. Students not desiring to graduate are allowed to select any studies from the above courses, provided the selected studies come regularly in the term desired.

MUSICAL DEPARTMENT.

This department is thorough and effective in its working, offering every facility afforded by the BOSTON CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC, with the additional advantage of individual instruction. Mr. James M. Tracy, teacher of Piano and Organ, Thorough Bass and Harmony, has been a teacher in the Boston Conservatory of Music for the past twelve years, and is one of the best teachers in New England. Mrs. Little, teacher in Vocal Music, has been long and favorably known among the teachers of Boston.

ART DEPARTMENT.

The work of this department bears witness to the excellence of the instruction there.

EXPENSES,

Including tuition, room-rent, heat, light, board and incidentals, per year Two Hundred Dollars. Tuition for day scholars Ten Dollars per term.

ADVERTISERS

Make no mistake when they use the columns of the WALPOLE STAR,

For it enters almost every home in town and is steadily increasing in circulation and influence.

Its forty-eight columns of matter every week make it one of the most interesting of country papers. No larger weekly paper published in the county.

If you want the news, subscribe now, $2.00 a year in advance; same proportion for three and six months.

If you have anything Lost, Found, For Sale, To Let, Wanted, &c., &c., let the public know it through these columns.

WALPOLE.

Walpole is bounded on the north by Norwood, Dedham, Dover and Medfield, on the east by Dedham, Norwood and Sharon, on the south by Sharon and Foxboro and on the west by Norfolk and Medfield. It has 12,469 acres of land taxed, 468 dwelling houses according to the town report of 1884, and according to the census of 1880, the population is 2,494.

The town, formerly a part of Dedham, was incorporated December 10, 1724, being named in honor of Sir Robert Walpole, who was then prime minister of England. Its surface is a happy blending of hills, valleys and plains, and a great number of small streams run through it, affording numerous water powers. For scenery and healthfulness it compares well with its neighbors, and is much sought by summer visitors. A fine public Library, public High and Grammar schools (of which there are seven,) six churches; two Congregational, two Methodist, Unitarian and Catholic, societies of different kinds, good stores, fine depot, well kept roads and buildings make it an attractive place of residence.

Its traditions are all honorable, and in troublous times its citizens have ever been in the front rank of those who were willing to sacrifice, and if need be, die for their country. First in the French and Indian war a company marched to Crown Point from here; "the shot heard round the world" on the 19th of April, 1775, was the signal at which 157 men out of a total population of only 800, hastened to the defence of their comrades; the war of 1812 found a company here ready for service, and later her sons laid down their lives in the dark days of the Rebellion.

Although much of the population is devoted to farming, the town, like so many New England towns, is essentially a manufacturing one, its many natural and artificial advantages favoring it in this respect. Among its principal industries may be mentioned three paper mills, four cotton mills, two wool scouring mills, one wool dying mill, dye and chemical works, dye works and bleachery, emery mills, establishments devoted to the manufacture of card clothing, mill supplies, fish lines and twine, felt hats, wagon springs, wagons, harnesses, etc.. besides saw mills, large ice houses, etc.

The town has a fire department well drilled. The Town House building, a fine brick structure, contains two town halls, one large, the other small, with convenient apartments for the public library and town officers, and a fine large vault for the safe keeping of the records and other valuable documents.

The societies, a list of which will be found elsewhere in this book, are all in a thriving condition. The town possesses one of the finest hotels in the county.

Walpole is distant about 19 miles from Boston and but a little more from Providence, on the main line of the New York and New England railroad at its junction with the Northern Division of the Old Colony road, and by frequent trains has connection with all points North, South, East and West. Its total valuation May 1, 1883, was $1,410,824.

NORWOOD.

Norwood is bounded on the North by Dedham, on the East by Canton and Sharon, on the South by Canton, Sharon and Walpole and on the West by Walpole and Dedham. It contains 6236 acres of land fit for cultivation, with a population of 2345 according to the census of 1880, but which has largely increased since then. Its total valuation for the year ending May 1, 1884, was $1,939,724.

Until the year 1872, the town was mostly a part of Dedham, being known as South Dedham, but in that year it was set off by itself. In the language of Dr. Francis Tinker, the efficient town clerk, "The Neponset river forms its eastern boundary, and from its broad meadows the land gently rises toward the west and northwest, forming a warm and sunny slope which is decorated with tasteful and pleasant homes." It has gained the name of being the most enterprising town in its neighborhood, and is growing in population and wealth faster than any of its neighbors. Its societies of a fraternal, business and public nature, have done much toward its upbuilding. Its fine Public Library of 3000 volumes, its fine schools, its four churches, (Congregational, Baptist, Universalist and Catholic,) its well kept roads, make it in connection with other advantages, a most desirable place of residence.

Although but young as a town, as a precinct or parish it dates back to 1730, and from among its inhabitants many went out to battle in the country's service. The first expedition in which its citizens took part, was that against Louisburg in 1745, and the second was through the wilderness to the shores of Lake George, in the same year. In 1775 in common with their neighbors, a company sprang to arms and hastened to intercept the Red Coats at Lexington and Concord. In every emergency they were faithful and ready, and when treason reared its head in 1861, a large company hurried to the front, many of whom there lost their lives.

Among the industries of the place are the New York and New England Machine and Car shops, which employ from 300 to 400 men, the large sheep skin tanneries of Winslow Brothers and Lyman Smith's Sons, each of which employs about 150 men, the celebrated printing ink manufactory of Geo. H. Morrill & Co., which is said to be the largest in the world, the iron foundry and machine shop of E. D. Draper & Son, oil cloth works of E. E. Pratt & Son, paper mill of Isaac Ellis, steam grist mill of Frank A. Fales, planing and wood working shops of Milton H. Howard and Tyler Thayer, carriage factory of J. W. Roby & Co., &c.

The town possesses an efficient fire department, a good hotel and unusually good stores. It is but fifteen miles distant from Boston at which place many of its citizens do business. It is on the main line of the New York and New England Railroad, and is accommodated by an unusually large number of passenger and freight trains daily.
